Five-Minute Mini-Mysteries

Synopsis

Detective Stanwick is back! And you are about to be challenged by 30 exciting mysteries. Each one takes only about five minutes to read. Every puzzle combines features of the traditional whodunit (physical clues, red herrings, means, motive, opportunity, time sequences) with logic puzzles (true-false statements, matching suspects with occupations, even a little math). Are you up to a little sleuthing and deductive reasoning? ã Å The Case of the Suspicious Fire: Did the owner try to burn down his own store? Or was he really home asleep? ã Å The Megaplast Mystery: Someone's threatening the life of The Megaplast Corporation's vice president. Can you find the culprit? You'll get some confusing facts, but if you use your smarts, you'll arrive at the answer. And many more!

Customer Reviews

Great for extra time in the classroom!

Service by vendor was excellent However, book wasn't that interesting as it had a lot of logic puzzles. For example, "Sam has a red suit but isn't a tennis player, while Joe has been to college and plays football, and Jerry doesn't play tennis or football but has a gray suit". Wanted and expected more of the who did it and how short stories.

My students love these!

Five minutes is really five minutes. Stories are longer than expected by the time I finish one I forgot what happened earlier.

I love the character. I love mysteries.

my daughter uses these to teach

I love this book, and so did my students!

I bought this as a gift for a child who loves mysteries, but she was disappointed. She said it wasn't a complete story but part of a story with questions at the end (and answers in the back) so the reader could figure out the mystery. She did not like that and thought the mysteries themselves weren't interesting.
