The Divine Sister

Synopsis

A crumbling convent school is on the verge of insolvency, when a young postulant begins to display strange heavenly powers. And when a dashing film executive arrives to buy the rights to her story, the Reverend Mother refuses to put profits over prayer. Playwright Charles Busch made his name with genre-skewering hits like Psycho Beach Party, Die Mommie Die, and The Tale of the Allergist's Wife, which L.A. Theatre Works recorded in 2007. This time around, we present Busch's high-voltage spoof of religious melodramas, starring three of the principal players from its original 2010 Off-Broadway run. An L.A. Theatre Works full-cast performance featuring: Emily Bergl as Agnes, Charles Busch as Mother Superior, Maxwell Caulfield as Jeremy/Brother Venerius, Alison Fraser as Sister Walburga/Mrs. MacDuffie, Julie Halston as Sister Acacius/Juliet Mills/ Mrs. Levinson, Timothy Directed by Carl Address. Recorded by L.A. Theatre Works before a live audience.

Customer Reviews

It's a very funny show, although the text feels slightly dated. That being said, I was offered a role in a local production of it, and I would have jumped at the chance had I been available.

Amazing script, just my cup of tea! A fun read, and a real contender for Community Theater.

Perhaps Spring Fling?

Busch makes us laff in spite of ourselves! I saw the play - a treasure; and now I adore publication
